I Can Write a
Spooky Story
MARY SHELLEY

Written by
Maria Isabel Sánchez Vegara

Illustrated by Yelena Bryksenkova

Baby Mary was the child of two writers.
She was born in England at a time of great change and amazing inventions.

Sadly, Mary's mother died when she was a baby. When she grew up, she often visited her mother's grave, where she spent hours reading and writing stories.

Back home, she would hide behind the sofa and listen to the many writers who visited her father. One of them was a young poet.

He and Mary fell in love and went travelling through Europe together.

One rainy summer, they visited a fellow poet in Switzerland. To pass the time, he challenged his guests to write a scary story.

For days, Mary tried to think of an idea for her story. Around this time, scientists discovered that the brain uses electricity to move the body. Mary found this fascinating.

One night, she dreamt of a scary creature made of old body parts.

The next morning, she began to write Frankenstein, the story of a monster with yellow skin and watery eyes, brought to life with a spark of electricity.

When Mary's book was published, it was an instant success! It became a classic, retold again and again.

And still today, readers feel a chill when they read Frankenstein – one of the greatest scary stories ever, from the imagination of a fearless writer.
